Making Our Living Environment More Senior-Friendly

As our population ages, it is timely to enhance and rejuvenate ageing public housing estates for our residents to live and age gracefully in place. It is an important and significant step towards creating safer and healthier communities for our senior residents.

Active ageing amenities such as therapeutic gardens, fitness trails/corners, and exercise equipment will promote healthy living and social interaction. Visible signages and murals on building façades will create a more inclusive environment for individuals with dementia.

Senior-friendly mobility enhancements such as barrier-free access ramps, rest points, and pedestrian-friendly streets will enhance safety and improve accessibility. The final enhancements will be determined through engagement with grassroots organisations and elderly residents.

Elderly Fitness Corners

Therapeutic gardens are outdoor gardens developed with evidence-based design principles to meet the physical, psychological and social needs of people using the gardens.

Development of these gardens will leverage on NTPA's research in therapeutic gardens, in consultation with Grassroots and Town Councils.

What Queenstown residents want

- 1) Park facilities that suit the theme and vision of the area
- 2) Improved wayfinding of green spaces (signages and maps at key points)
